Supplementary Online Content

eFigure. IgG deposits on a section of a toxic epidermal necrolysis biopsy specimen. Few dense deposits (empty arrows) are observed on vascular sections situated beneath the epidermal cleft, whereas very thin deposits are found around lumen in other microvessels (full arrows) (original magnification ×400).

This supplementary material has been provided by the authors to give readers additional information about their work.