Supplementary Online Content

eFigure 1. The Proposed Alternative Affordability Index
eFigure 2. The Proposed Comprehensive Affordability Index
eFigure 3. The Proposed Alternative Comprehensive Affordability Index

This supplementary material has been provided by the authors to give readers additional information about their work.
eFigure 1. The Proposed Alternative Affordability Index

The Alternative Affordability Index is calculated by dividing the mean family premium for an employer-sponsored insurance plan (from KFF/HRET Employer Health Benefits Survey) by historical mean household income for households with one or more earner (calculated from the Census Current Population Survey).

Sources:

© 2017 American Medical Association. All rights reserved.
The Comprehensive Affordability Index is calculated by adding mean family OOP spending (based on MEPS-HC data) to the mean family premium for an employer-sponsored insurance plan (from KFF/HRET Employer Health Benefits Survey) and dividing the sum by median household income (from the Census Current Population Survey).

Sources:

© 2017 American Medical Association. All rights reserved.
The Proposed Alternative Comprehensive Affordability Index

The Alternative Comprehensive Affordability Index is calculated by adding mean family OOP spending (based on MEPS-HC data) to the mean family premium for an employer-sponsored insurance plan (from KFF/HRET Employer Health Benefits Survey) and dividing the sum by historical mean household income for households with one or more earner (calculated from the Census Current Population Survey).

Sources: